We had an ideal of owning a place in France. Eventually we bought a mid-19th century property that suited our budget; a small, dark, damp, unloved property but with potential. Not having any building or DIY skills ourselves we were in need of a competent builder.

We met Stephen initially to discuss the project and hired him. We met him once again mid-project and again at the end. Stephen project managed the whole thing. He reliably kept us informed throughout with weekly photo updates and telephoned frequent progress reports.

Stephen, and his team, carried out a total renovation on the existing building (inside and out) which incorporated a substantial new build extension. The project involved complete reconfiguration and creation of internal rooms - new walls, floors and ceilings, rewiring and plumbing, new bathroom and a fitted kitchen, up to a level ready for decoration.

Everyone who has visited and seen the completed house has commented on what a good job has been made and we are delighted with the transformation to a sympathetically modernised light, airy and spacious house. Our thanks to Stephen who has proven himself very capable, reliable and trustworthy and we wouldn't hesitate to recommend or indeed to hire him again.
